Husband Says His Wife Drowned Attempting Dive; Witnesses Claim He Struggled With Her.

HAMPTON, Va., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Fishermen who told officer they witnessed the drowning of Mrs. Jennie Kane last Friday were summoned before a coroner's jury here this afternoon while her husband, Elisha Kent Kane, University of Tennessee professor, was held without bail on charges of murder.

The coroner's jury recessed tonight after a four-hour session behind closed doors without rendering a verdict.

Commonwealth's Attorney Roland D. Cocks, who ordered Kane's arrest yesterday a few hours after his wife was buried, said the warrant was issued on reports of alleged eyewitnesses, on conflicting statements made by Professor Kane as to the manner of his wife's death and other circumstances which he could not reveal before the coroner's inquest.

Kane denied responsibility for his wife's death and said she slipped off a rock as they were swimming at an isolated part of Chesapeake bay. He said he made efforts to resuscitate her after he had pulled her from the water in an unconscious condition.

Officers said the fishermen told them they heard Mrs. Kane scream and that they watched her husband bring her to shore and place her body in an automobile before they could render assistance. Mrs. Kane was dead when the automobile reached a hospital here. The fishermen reported to officers when they read of Mrs. Kane's death.

Coroner George K. Vandercil said his examination of the body revealed that she was due to drown. He said there were no marks on the body to indicate strangulation.

The 38-year-old professor is a member of a prominent Pennsylvania family. His father, Evan O'Neil Kane, of near Philadelphia, is a surgeon and is said to have been the first man to remove his own appendix. A grandfather was an Arctic explorer.

Mr. and Mrs. Kane were married after a courtship that began at Roanoke College. Kane was a student while his wife, then Miss Jenny Kane, was a member of the younger set at Salem, Va. Their marriage was only a short time after his graduation.

Mr. Kane taught at Augusta, Ga., and Miami, Fla., before coming to the University of Tennessee for further work. He also attended the University of Madrid in Spain.

KANE 'MUCH DEVOTED'
TO WIFE, SAY CO-WORKERS
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Fellow professors at the University of Tennessee today picture Professor Elisha Kent Kane and his wife, Mrs. Jennie Kane, who drowned at Hampton, Va., last week, as being "much devoted" to each other.

Mrs. Kane drowned while bathing with her husband in Chesapeake bay. He is held in jail at Hampton on a charge of murder while authorities are investigating her death. He denied the charges.

"They were a splendid couple and appeared to be devoted to each other," said Dean John A. Thackston, of the college of education.

Mrs. Margaret Hamer, professor of history, told Mrs. Kane's plans to learn to swim while visiting in Virginia this summer.

"She told me last spring that she was going to learn how to swim on her visit to Virginia because her husband was a strong swimmer and enjoyed the sport," Mrs. Hamer said.

Professor Kane came to the University of Tennessee last year.

Killing of Mother-in-Law Laid to Georgia Salesman

Sheriff's deputies of Oconee county Monday night were seeking 25-year-old Robert White, an Athens salesman charged with the slaying of his mother-in-law Monday morning. White is said to have shot at his wife, the bullet striking Mrs. White's mother, Mrs. Maggie Doggett, 55. Mrs. Doggett and Mrs. White are shown above. The inset is a photo of the alleged slayer.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 14.—Police and sheriff's deputies of Clarke and Oconee counties tonight were seeking 25-year-old Robert White, who is alleged to have shot at his wife this morning in Oconee county and instead killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. W. F. Doggett, who sought to pacify him.

Sheriff Crowley, of Watkinsonville, the Oconee county seat, said he had information which led him to believe that young White, an automotive supply salesman of Athens, would be under arrest within 24 hours.

The shooting took place in front of the Doggett home, not far from Watkinsonville. White is alleged to have gone there seeking to get his wife to return to him. They separated some time ago and last week Mrs. White had her husband arrested on a charge of nonsupport. He was released from jail here after promising to support his wife and their 11-month-old baby.

Information reaching Athens after the shooting said that White fired at his wife, missing her, that Mrs. Doggett ran from the house and called upon him to quit shooting but that he continued to fire at Mrs. White, one of the bullets striking the mother-in-law.

Doggett, who is a section foreman for the Central of Georgia railroad, was called home and he joined with Sheriff Crowley and his deputies in seeking White. The Athens police and the Clarke county sheriff's office was called on to help in the search but no trace of him was found.

Key branded the statement as "the weakest exhibition of courage I ever saw," telling those attending the conference that he probably would open a controversy between Murphy and myself, which I will take no steps to avoid.

Murphy was out of the city and will not return until Monday, the date for the next meeting of council.

Pointing out that he was disappointed that Atlanta teachers did not agree to co-operate wholeheartedly in the salary donation proposal, Key called on Miss Mann to call another meeting of teachers to reconsider the matter.

Miss Mann asked under what conditions and on what basis he has done repeatedly "without any conditions."

No call for the session had been issued late Monday afternoon by Miss Mann.

If Key is forced to issue the call for volunteers, it was predicted that only those teachers who respond will have contracts renewed next year, and that an effort will be made to replace the others.

KEY TO ISSUE CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS IN SCHOOL CRISIS

Mayor Determined To Operate System Even If Employees Continue Against Donation Plan.

Volunteers to teach Atlanta's 50,000 school youngsters will be called for Friday by Mayor James L. Key if teachers and officials of the Atlanta public school system decline to co-operate to keep the schools open, it was announced Monday.

Key has announced that schools will not close, but employees have refused to co-operate in a proposal to donate December salaries to the city treasury to bridge an ever-widening financial gap.

The ultimatum to accede to the proposal or "get out of the way and let me run the schools" was delivered by Key at a meeting of a conference committee from the board, administration leaders and Miss Allie Mann, president of the Atlanta Public School Teachers' Association, in the executive offices Monday morning.

Failure of the conference to produce an accord would, it appeared, precipitate a crisis by the end of the week.

Although a special meeting of the finance committee of council was called for 10 o'clock Thursday morning, with a meeting of the board of education slated for 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon, there appeared to be an impasse between views of the mayor and those of school leaders.

Unconditional Support Withheld.

Key reiterated a demand for unconditional co-operation of teachers and officials in his proposed month's salary donation plan.

When the finance committee met Thursday it is expected that Key will insist that further appropriations for salary purposes be made contingent upon acceptance of school employees of the month's salary sacrifice. The mayor declined to commit himself following the conference, but those close to him said he would not recede from his stand.

Alderman J. Charlie Murphy, chairman of the finance committee, who said Saturday that he and his associates would do everything possible to see that they are paid for the entire year, in doing so moved directly against Key's announced plan that all employees must forego December salaries, and there was prospect of an open break between Key and the finance committee head.

Key branded the statement as "the weakest exhibition of courage I ever saw," telling those attending the conference that he probably would open a controversy between Murphy and myself, which I will take no steps to avoid.

Murphy was out of the city and will not return until Monday, the date for the next meeting of council.

Congressman Parker Given Commission

Following his election at the polls Saturday, former Adjutant General Homer C. Parker Monday received from Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. his commission as a member of congress from the first Georgia district.

Parker succeeded late Congressman Charles G. Edwards.

In a three-cornered primary race, the first district member defeated J. W. Overstreet, of Savannah, and Albert L. Cobb, of Savannah, winning 10 of the 12 counties. He will not go to Washington, he said Monday, until congress meets the first Monday in December, but will have an office in the meantime in Statesboro.

Congressman Parker will take with him to Washington, as his private secretary, Marvin Cox, of Waynesboro, and his former secretary while adjutant general, Miss Ollie Girardeaux, of Pembroke, will go to the national capital as his office clerk.

Condors To Go On Atlanta-Richmond Line; Eastern Air Plans New Route to Savannah

For his first airplane ride, Mayor James L. Key chose one of Eastern Air Transport's new 18-passenger Condors, of the type that will be put into service between Atlanta and New York about October 4. Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. accompanied the mayor on his maiden voyage. In the group above are, left to right: Harold A. Elliott, vice president and general manager of Eastern Air Transport; Captain Thomas B. Doe, president; Mayor Key; Governor Russell; and Mrs. Annie Porter Cullum, chief hostess for the lines. Staff photo by Sandy Sanders.

Eighteen-passenger Curtiss Condors, finest examples of the modern transport plane, will go into service on October 1 on the Atlanta-Richmond division of Eastern Air Transport's mail-passenger route to New York. It was announced Monday night by Captain Thomas B. Doe, president, at a dinner at the Capital City Club. Officials of the big transport company were honor guests and a number of prominent Atlantans were present at the affair, which was given by Robert F. Maddox, Atlanta banker.

Captain Doe also announced that a branch passenger line between Atlanta and Savannah, the first direct air connection between the two cities, would be established at an early date. Establishment of the new route will mean the successful culmination of a project sought for months by Savannah and Atlanta civic leaders.

The Condors, which are regarded as the most luxurious land planes now manufactured, will fly three times a week between Atlanta and Richmond and return, Captain Doe said. If demand for seats indicates that the larger planes should be put into daily service, this will be done as soon as practicable, the company head stated.

The 18-place biplanes now are in regular daily service between Richmond and New York and their installation on the southern half of the route will, for the first time, enable air passengers to fly the entire distance between Atlanta and New York in the commodious craft. Passengers now must change planes at Richmond to the larger equipment, five-passenger Curtiss Kingbirds operating between here and the Virginia port.

Walker Offers Beer Tax As U. S. Budget Solution

LONDON, Sept. 14.—(UP)—A way to raise a billion dollars from beer sales in the United States was suggested today by Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, as a means of meeting federal budgetary needs.

Walker, who received the press after having luncheon with Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald at No. 10 Downing street, suggested "a reasonable tax on beer at its source and a retail price of 10 cents a glass" to relieve the thirst of his homeland.

NEW HURRICANE MENACES BELIZE

Tension Lessened, However, as Force of Storm Diminishes.

Definite advice that a lone hurricane was swishing through the Caribbean with diminishing force, served to lessen tension in Central America and Mexico last night.

At 9 p. m., United States meteorologists said the blow was moving westward over Yucatan peninsula and that its center would likely pass near Frontera, Mexico, Tuesday morning.

Belize, Honduras, swept by a similar storm on last Thursday with a loss of hundreds of lives, breathed easier as the difficult task of rehabilitation proceeded.

La Paz, Lower California, reported another peninsula city, Santa Rosalia, virtually destroyed Sunday by a storm which blew in from the Pacific. "A number of deaths" was reported, and apprehension was felt for shipping. Mexico City meteorologists said last night this cyclonic disturbance dissolved yesterday.

BY REX SAFFER.
BELIZE, B. H., Sept. 14.—(AP)—(Via Pan-American Radio.)—Little apprehension was felt here tonight that a tropical storm, sweeping the western Caribbean, would strike this Honduran capital, devastated by a hurricane last week that took a toll of between 500 and 1,000 lives.

Until advised by radio messages, few persons here knew of the approaching disturbance, due to the fact that all other means of communication have been disrupted.

Latest reports indicate the storm would pass inland between here and Belize.

RUSSELL WAITING FOR BAN IN TEXAS

Georgia Call Will Follow
Passage of Long "No-
Cotton" Plan, Governor
Announces.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

While legislators in extraordinary session Monday listened to Governor Ibra C. Blackwood urge adoption of a cotton holiday program for 1932 in South Carolina, proponents of the Huey P. Long "no cotton" plan and advocates of acreage reduction strengthened battle lines in the Texas general assembly, also in special session. The showdown on the two relief plans is expected today.

House action on bills was started at Austin with the house sitting as a committee of the whole. A proposal which would restrict the planting of cotton by the individual farmer to one-third of his cultivated land, and favored by Governor Ross Sterling, had a large number of supporters, while adherents to the Long plan of cotton prohibition also were in large numbers.

To the one-third restriction proposal two amendments, both of which were defeated, were sought. One amendment would restrict the planting to 50 per cent and the other to 25 per cent of cultivated land.

Cotton men said the one-third restriction plan would mean a cut in cotton acreage of between 50 and 60 per cent.

The proposal to restrict the planting to 50 per cent was defeated 70 to 45, and the 25 per cent restriction proposal was defeated 68 to 45.

Two Plans Before Senate.

The Texas senate had for consideration both the Long plan and the one-third plan with a proposal to change the one-third plan to one-half.

It had been generally conceded that the Long plan will be defeated unless there should be a change in sentiment on the part of the plan continued their fight.

An official delegation from Arkansas arrived in Austin today to urge cotton prohibition and a telegram was received from the South Carolina senate asking enactment of the 1932 holiday.

In the South Carolina legislature both houses approved bills outlawing the plan for next year.

Governor Russell, of Georgia, definitely announced Monday he would call a special session of the Georgia legislature to enact cotton legislation when the Texas general assembly passed cotton prohibition for next year.

Eugene Talmadge, Georgia commissioner of agriculture, was busy at his Atlanta office mailing out letters urging farmers to attend a mass meeting on the laws of the state capital Wednesday, where the cotton situation would be discussed.

Governor Russell made known his position on the legislation by a question in a telegram to State Senator Margie E. Neal, of Texas, who had

Farley Sees Gov. Roosevelt As Nominee by Acclamation

New York Leader Declares All Classes of Democrats Are Swinging on to "Bandwagon."

BY M. E. HENNESSY.
NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—"I look to see Governor Roosevelt nominated by acclamation. On my recent trip west I talked with democratic leaders, men and women, wets and dries, liberals and conservatives, and I came back convinced that the demand for the nomination of Franklin Roosevelt for president is genuine.

"So widespread is this sentiment that I honestly believe a majority of the country would be willing to let him write his own platform."
These are the words of James A. Farley, chairman of the New York democratic state committee and recognized manager of the Roosevelt-for-president movement which has been gathering force ever since the govern-nor was re-elected last year by the unprecedented majority of 750,000.

Farley, a figure little known to the national political stage, has been rolling up the Roosevelt boom.
Last week came what many thought was a big piece of political news. A Washington correspondent said he knew Al Smith was out of the 1932 race, clearing the course for Roosevelt. There was a flurry of excitement.
But a few hours later Al telephoned from his Long Island vacation spot to say that no one was authorized to speak for him and that it was too early to tell what he would do next June.
What does all this signify?
There is gossip about Smith going out and capturing the New York delegates to the 1932 convention, but few believe he will. It might be the signal for other states which have little love for New York politicians to rally to Roosevelt.
It is said Governor Roosevelt has not bothered to seek Al's advice on matters at Albany. It is also known that Al is out of the Curry regime in Tammany.

Aged Tennessee Mayor And Girl Wife Reconciled
PARIS, Tenn., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Mayor Frank McNeill, Paris' 65-year-old executive, and his 19-year-old wife were together again today and "happy" after a quarrel which resulted in a two weeks' separation.
Quite a stir was created in Paris in August of 1930, when the wealthy mayor picked Polly, 15-year-old waitress, as his bride. Newspapers all over the country told the unusual romance and followed the career of Mayor McNeill with interest.
Two weeks ago the mayor said he was "through with married life" after a love quarrel with Polly. Friends brought about a reconciliation he said today.

to tie him up with Tammany will fail, but the place in line with the Roosevelt regime, in the opinion of people who ought to know, thus paying back in part the political debt he owes the governor, who has always been one of his most enthusiastic supporters.
If the governor gets the nomination, many say a big part of the credit will go to Mr. Farley. He is an upstate democrat, whom Roosevelt picked up and pushed along and made the party chairman, because he believed in Farley as a capable depend upon him to look out for his interest in the party organization.
"Jim Farley is, in the first place, a square shooter, an honest politician," said a man who knows him well.
"Don't smile, it's the truth. I've known him 20 years. He's a great mixer. Doesn't drink or smoke, looks you straight in the eye and doesn't lie. He's not one of those wise guys who patronizes one. He is a grand listener."
"In my mind there is no question about the south in the next campaign," said Mr. Farley. "Almost daily evidence crops out that they are anxious to climb aboard the Roosevelt bandwagon."
"The spontaneity of the trend is so pronounced I cannot see where the opposition is going to muster one-third of the delegates to stop him for the nomination. Why, in some of the western states it wouldn't surprise me if there were rival Roosevelt delegations contending for seats in the convention."
"In one of the western cities, where I conferred with the democratic leaders, the state chairman invited me to meet a gathering of women interested in politics. After I talked to them on democratic prospects one woman arose and said:
"Mr. Farley, I want you to know that if Mr. Roosevelt is the presidential nominee, it doesn't matter what platform he stands on. I am for his election and I know a number of others who feel the same as I do. I am the head of the W. C. T. U. of this county. The women settled the last election and they are going to settle the election of 1932."

TAMPA ATTORNEY TAKES OWN LIFE
TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Allen T. Stuart, 57, prominent Tampa attorney and former representative from Hillsborough county in the legislature, committed suicide at his home here this morning by shooting himself through the head as he sat in a bath tub filled with water.
He left no word of explanation. His family attributed the act to his despondency over financial reverses.
He is survived by his widow, a stepson, Herbert, and his mother, Mrs. Ellen Stuart.
He was a former representative from Hillsborough county in the legislature and was assistant city attorney in 1914.

U. S. AGREES TO WAIT FOR GERMANS' MONEY
WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The United States has agreed to a year's suspension of payment by Germany of the $9,000,000 due American interests under awards of the mixed claims commission.
The United States will, however, pay to Germany $18,000,000 in commission awards.
The United States originally had proposed that the balance of $9,000,000 representing the difference between the amounts owed by the two nations be paid to Germans.
The French had no objection to the United States paying the Germans but would not agree to having Germany pay Americans during the year covered by President Hoover's international debt suspension agreement.
State department officials said the bulk of the funds paid by this country would go to German shipping firms.

MRS. CROKER WINS LATEST COURT TILT
WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 14.—(AP)—For the second time in a month Mrs. Bula Croker was successful today in removing a large lien imposed on her Palm Beach estates in controversies with her former legal and business advisers.
Circuit court granted her motion to remove a claim of lien filed against part of her ocean front lands by Mrs. Rowena Robinson, widow of Guthrie Robinson, Mrs. Croker's former business agent. Mrs. Robinson had filed the lien claim in a controversy over a $150,000 note Mrs. Croker had given Robinson. Lawyers read an affidavit quoting Mrs. Croker as saying she "would kill her first" rather than pay Mrs. Robinson the note.

SCHOFIELD TAKES POST AS FLEET HEAD TODAY

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Admiral Frank H. Schofield will become commander-in-chief of the nation's battle fleet tomorrow in succession to Admiral Jehu V. Chase.

Gold braid, cocked hats and gleaming epaulettes will supply the background.
Admiral Chase is scheduled for duty at Washington as a member of the navy general board. Admiral Schofield comes to his new post from the battle force, of which he has been commander-in-chief the past year.

SCHOFIELD RECOGNIZED AS NAVAL STRATEGIST
WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Admiral Frank H. Schofield, who tomorrow becomes commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, is considered one of the leading naval strategists.

Born in Jerusalem, N. Y., January 4, 1869, the admiral was appointed to the Naval Academy in 1888. He served as executive officer of the battleship Arkansas in 1913 and as executive officer of the battleship Delaware. In 1915 he was ordered to command the U. S. S. Chester, light cruiser.

Kerosene Alkaloids May Prove Medicinal

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Alkaloids newly discovered at the University of Texas in crude kerosene will be tested at the University of Pennsylvania for possibilities of new medical properties.
These products, different from anything hitherto obtained from a natural source, are classified as hydroaromatic bases, in which are included such well-known plant drugs as quinine, morphine, cocaine and strychnine.

The co-operative research was announced here today by Dr. J. R. Bailey, professor of organized chemistry at the University of Texas. The petroleum alkaloids will be tried out in the cancer research institute of the University of Pennsylvania. The head of this institute, Dr. Ellice McDonald, issued a statement that "these new substances are a great and promising field in medicine and biological research."

Have you what is commonly called that Tired Feeling?

"Mother, I do wish you were well and strong"

"I just can't go on"—how often you hear this.

So often the reason is simple—that good body of ours has "run-down" under the strain of our way of living . . . pressure of work and worry.

Those important precious red-blood-cells that mean so much to vitality become lowered in count . . . the hemoglobin percentage begins to fall and we wonder "what is the matter?"

If this is your trouble, why not take steps to overcome it—remembering that a "tired feeling" may be a warning . . . so are pimples, boils and paleness. A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease.

Sometimes it is a lagging appetite that leads to underweight and ill health. You cannot be low in strength and be happy—let's be happy.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

You should know that S.S.S. has the distinct advantage of being composed of fresh vegetable medicinal ingredients in concentrated form . . . it is Mother Nature's formula. Why not start taking S.S.S. today—the larger size represents a price saving.

Why you should be interested in your Blood Count

(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

Europa Delayed.

BREMEN, Germany, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A radio message from the home-bound liner Europa today said her starboard propeller had been damaged by striking a floating object and her arrival probably would be delayed.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A message to farmers and businessmen alike "to understand the agricultural marketing act and the federal farm board under which it was created" was brought by James C. Stone, chairman of the board, today to the conference of state agriculture extension directors and representatives of farm organizations.

Called by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the conference was occupied with discussing means of "effectively organizing agriculture through the true principles of co-operation" and of strengthening and encouraging support of the system of county agents.

O'Neal opened the conference with a warning that "an organized effort, inspired principally by the great speculative interests, is being made to mobilize public opinion against the work of the extension service, the farm board, co-operative associations, the farm bureau and other agencies working in the interests of agriculture."

This warning was echoed by Chairman Stone, who expressed the belief that "the greater share of critics of the marketing act and the farm board had never read the act."

"The average businessman and farmer," Stone said, "thinks the farm board's only purpose is the stabilization of wheat and cotton. They forget that these are only emergency actions. Our business is what the act implies, the marketing of the farmers' products."

Cafe Owner Declares Moratorium on Debts

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 14.—(AP)—John M. Pointkovsky today did his bit for depression victims by declaring a perpetual moratorium on debts past due.

Pointkovsky, who has operated a cafe here for seven years, announced cancellation of $10,000 in debts, owed to him by persons who neglected to pay for meals over the seven-year stretch.

"I saw that many poor people could not pay me, so I decided to wipe the slate clean," he explained.

COLLINGS CASE AGAIN RE-ENACTED

BY MAURICE DUHAMEL

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP)—In the presence of a skeptical county prosecutor aboard the cruiser Penguin, Mrs. Benjamin Collings' third re-enactment of her story of her husband's disappearance was described tonight by authorities as "productive of results."

The announcement was made by Fred A. Munder, assistant district attorney of Suffolk county, whose superior, District Attorney Alexander Blue, told Mrs. Collings earlier he did not believe her account of an invasion of their yacht in which two men threw her husband overboard and abducted her.

Munder said Mrs. Collings repeated her original account of the midnight "piracy" without any changes. "Her attitude under today's questioning was helpful," said Munder, but he refused to amplify his statement as to the "results" obtained.

FUGITIVE RECAPTURED TRYING TO JOIN NAVY

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 14.—(AP)

Howard Dunlap, 21, Napoleon, Ohio, who, police said, escaped from jail at Kenton, Ohio, last Thursday, where he was held as a bandit suspect, was taken into custody today at the navy recruiting office.

Detective Inspector W. T. Griffin said he had received word Dunlap might try to enlist here, and he and other officers were waiting when the young man entered.

Griffin said Dunlap was held at Kenton in default of a $5,000 bond in connection with an investigation into charges of robbery and shooting with intent to kill.

Proverb Contest Leaps to Overnight Popularity—No Subscriptions to Get—Just Profit, Pleasure and Inspiration.

BY THE PROVERB CONTEST EDITOR

Since you were a wee tot you've heard such sayings as "A stitch in time saves nine," "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush" and "As the boy so the man." These old sayings are what make up The Constitution's proverb contest, which got off to a flying start Sunday and is hourly adding to its popularity.

Cash prizes totaling $2,300 will be given to readers who identify the old sayings used to illustrate the series of pictures. The first prize is $1,000. Then there are 29 other prizes ranging from $500 down.

Look at picture No. 3, published today. What familiar old saying is the subject of this scene? If, off-hand, you don't remember, the correct answer can be found in the list of proverbs beneath the picture. That's the way the game is played. What could be more interesting or simpler? The $2,300 in cash prizes go to readers who fit the largest number of these old sayings to the series of pictures. Nothing more is required. Those who take part in the contest will not be asked to get subscriptions, solicit votes or to do any kind of outside work. The proverb contest is not in any sense a subscription campaign. It is being conducted solely for the entertainment of Constitution readers.

Picture No. 1 of the proverb contest series was published last Sunday, while Picture No. 2 appeared Monday. If you missed either or both of these pictures, don't be discouraged. Pictures Nos. 1 and 2 may be had free and without obligation by calling at the office of The Constitution—or a 2-cent stamp enclosed with a request will bring them by mail.

The sparkling wit and profound philosophies of the greatest men and women in history are to be found in a valuable list of 2,000 old and new proverbs just published by The Constitution. The list, which will be helpful to contestants, may be had free by calling at the office of The Constitution, or by mail for a 2-cent stamp.

GANDHI IS SILENT

AT INDIAN PARLEY

Mahatma Looks on While Leaders Prepare for Round Table Session.

BY JAMES A. MILLIS.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—British and Indian political leaders, assembled at St. James' palace today, heard numerous diplomatic speeches expressing hope that the great Indian problem might finally be settled—but Mahatma Gandhi, the man who dominated the meeting, sat wrapped in his dhoti and said nothing.

The occasion was a meeting of the federal structures committee in preparation for the second round table conference on Indian affairs.

The Mahatma's dhoti—or shawl—and loincloth afforded little protection against the chill in the centuries-old palace.

During the morning and early afternoon Mr. Gandhi fared well, for sunlight poured through the window on the wall at his back. But as the day advanced the sun passed, and a short time before adjournment he got up from his seat without a word and departed.

The leader of India's nationalist millions said nothing because Monday is his day of silence, which he has observed for many years. Saying nothing, he still dominated the meeting, for, as many speakers observed, he represented the largest political organization in India.

Tomorrow he will speak, and many observers declare that when he has spoken it will be possible to gauge the success or failure of the conference.

What he will say remained unknown tonight—for he has not outlined his speech. Instead, he will rely on his "inner voice" which, to him, is God.

OPENING THE WAY FOR ATLANTA'S GREATER INDUSTRIAL GROWTH

ATLANTA'S outstanding industrial advantages have brought a flood of new payrolls to this city during past years. Its strategic value as a distributing point, the easy availability of raw materials, the efficiency of labor—all these have played a part.

With Natural Gas, a new factor came in. It opens the way for a whole new group of industries for whom Atlanta becomes a logical location. Its rich flame and economy are essential to certain types of operation.

Its absence barred many types of industry from the city.

Satisfied with the gas supply, and with the other essential factors, many an executive is today studying Atlanta as a place in which to live, to work . . . as the future center of operations.

In every possible way, we are cooperating with such concerns, giving them data on which to base their judgment, supplying them with information out of our 75 years of service to Atlanta.

GAS —THE MODERN WAY

Natural gas is bringing new comfort, convenience and economy to Atlanta homes—modernizing cooking, refrigeration, hot water supply and house heating. We are prepared to show you in dollars and cents for how little you can modernize your home with gas.

NEW ST. LUKE'S HEAD BEGINS DUTIES TODAY

Rev. J. W. Walker Arrives
From Charlotte To Take Up Duties as Rector.

The Rev. John Moore Walker, formerly rector of St. Peter's Episcopal church, Charlotte, N. C., will assume his new duties as pastor of St. Luke's Episcopal church today. Mr. Walker and his family arrived here Monday and will reside at 176 Peachtree circle. He will conduct his first services here Sunday.

Mr. Walker was educated at the University of Georgia and the University of the South, at Sewanee, and being a native of Macon, Mr. Walker is well known in this state. He succeeds the Rev. N. R. High Moor, now dean of the Pittsburgh cathedral. Before going to Charlotte in 1926, he served as pastor of the church in Albany and in missionary work in this state. Mrs. Walker is also a native Georgian. She is a daughter of the late Dr. Samuel C. Benedict, of Athens. Mr. Walker, who smokes but does not play golf, says he is decidedly not a reactionary. He believes, he says, that religion should be interpreted in present-day terms, but that the congregation should do its own thinking.

SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO. MARKS ANNIVERSARY

Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s forty-fifth anniversary sale this week is featuring cotton goods in an effort to aid the market on this commodity, it is announced by Arthur Wasser, manager of the company's retail store here on Ponce de Leon avenue.

Among the items featured in the sale, at least half of them will contain cotton, the announcement says. As an indication of the extent of Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s dealings in cotton, merchandise sold by the company last year contained cotton valued at $20,700,000, a survey made by the company shows. The survey pointed out that thousands of the 48,000 items sold by the company are made from cotton.

The company buys no raw cotton, the survey says, but it is in a position to increase consumption of the commodity by featuring articles in which cotton is used.

Interesting statistics also are given of the prominent role Sears, Roebuck & Co. plays with the railroads of the country, the survey showing that last year the big merchandise firm paid a sum of $13,799,283 to the railroads. This sum comprises freight charges on goods from factories to mail order houses, from factories to warehouses and from warehouses to mail order houses and retail stores.

AGED VETERAN DIES AT SOLDIERS' HOME

A. J. Barfield, 98, one of the oldest survivors of the Civil War, died Monday at the Confederate Soldiers' Home after a brief illness. He was that private in Company D, Third Georgia regiment, who, when taken prisoner by Federal soldiers at the Battle of Perryville, Ky., September 28, 1862, according to historical archives, gave the sign of a Mason and was immediately released.

Born in Macon county June 28, 1833, he lived all his life in Georgia. He entered the Soldiers' Home three years ago.

Surviving him are a son and two daughters, Mrs. Susie Bentley, of Columbus, Ga., and Mrs. W. H. Blakely, Birmingham, Ala. Funeral services will be held in Columbus, Ga., some time today.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Leonard C. Adams, whose home is in Jacksonville, Fla., was cross-examined at length. Although the government produced eight witnesses, all of whom had heard the argument preceding the shooting, only one witness, a negro, had been present when the shots were fired.

U. S. LIQUOR CONTROL IS ADVOCATED BY KEY

Mayor Would Let Each State
Decide for Itself on Wet-
Dry Problem.

Federal control of liquor, with states themselves deciding whether the government should permit sale in any state and with the open saloon barred, was favored Monday by Mayor James L. Key, whose anti-prohibition views have stirred international interest.

The mayor's statement was made when E. A. Ewing, southern states secretary of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, called on Key and asked him if he would offer for congress on a straight anti-prohibition platform.

Key said if he ran at all he would have to offer on a change in the present system. He does not favor repeal but modification of the present laws, he added.

Ewing said he is investigating the feasibility of entering a wet candidate in the congressional race this fall from the fifth Georgia district, in which Atlanta is located, and intimated that such a candidate may become a reality. Key said he was not a candidate for any office at the present time.

"What I believe is that each state should decide whether it wants to change the system," Key said.

"I would never favor the abominable open saloon. It should not come back, but I do favor taking the liquor business in the south from the negro, which is a travesty."

Ewing pointed out that two prominent Atlantans, Milton Dargan and Harry M. Atkinson, are national directors of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

MURRAY HITS BOARD ON WHEAT LENDING

Governor Says Milling Company Profited $600,000 in Purported Transaction.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Governor W. H. Murray asked the federal farm board today "if it is not true" that it loaned 1,000,000 bushels of wheat to one milling company when wheat was 85 cents a bushel and now is taking it back at a price so low the company is profiting $600,000 by the purported transaction.

Murray last week called on the board to show where 250,000,000 bushels of stabilization wheat is stored and said Oklahoma farmers thought the wheat had been loaned to mills and would be replaced by cheap wheat. Today the governor declared Chairman Stone of the board had answered

"They had loaned or let with certain millers a few hundred thousand bushels, which should be returned on demand," and continued:

"The lending of this wheat to the millers is not calculated to raise the price but only make the millers more secure in their supply."

"I now submit him this direct question: Did he not loan as much as 1,000,000 bushels or more to one milling company, when wheat was selling at 85 cents a bushel, and are not these same milling companies returning the wheat now at 25 cents a bushel, thereby giving the milling company a profit of $600,000 by this transaction of the government?"

Murray also said "I challenge them to disprove that the board has deposited with large milling companies this wheat, and have discriminated against the small milling companies in favor of the larger ones and that by such

CHAIRMAN STONE DENIES CHARGES OF OKLAHOMAN CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Chairman James T. Stone, of the federal farm board, today denied charges of Governor William H. Murray, of Oklahoma, that the grain stabilization corporation loaned 1,000,000 bushels of wheat to one milling company when wheat was 85 cents a bushel and that it is now taking it back at a price so low the company is profiting by $600,000.

Now Dr. Leonard wants every sufferer from itching, bleeding or protruding piles to benefit by his discovery. So Jacobs' Drug Stores and good druggists everywhere are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will positively end piles in any form or money back.

On that honorable basis, get HEM-ROID Tablets today and say to your doctor: GOODBYE FOREVER.

Record for Cross Distribution Made by U.D.C. at Thomasville

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Sept. 14.—The John G. Gordon Chapter, U. D. C., of Thomasville, has made a national record for obtaining and presenting crosses of service to soldiers and sailors of the World War and the Spanish-American War. On Sunday afternoon, September 27, they will have their second presentation ceremony of the year 1931, at the local American Legion home, and Mrs. J. J. Harris, of Sandesville, state president of the U. D. C., will be present and preside. The Thomasville Legion auxiliary will be her hosts and will hold a reception for her at the Rosemary Inn.

On that occasion 57 Crosses of Service will be presented to the soldiers and sailors who are dependents of Confederate veterans. The chapter presented 43 of these crosses last spring and the 57 to be presented on September 27 will run the total to an even 100. In the whole state of Georgia only 68 additional Crosses of Service have thus far been presented, making the total for the state 168. At that Georgia will be the state to lead over all other states in the Union in such presentations, their nearest rival being about a dozen short of this number.

The crosses are made of brass and are presented here have been compiled as the personal work of Miss Elizabeth Hopkins, historian of John B. Gordon chapter. She has devoted many days of her time to the subject, and carried on correspondence in a score of states in the nation, from Georgia to California, and from Maine to Mexico.

FARMER GIVEN LIFE FOR SLAYING OF WIFE

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., Sept. 14.—Cass Givens, young farmer of near Buford, was sentenced to serve life imprisonment here today following his conviction on a charge of murdering his wife. The jury, which deliberated only 15 minutes, found Givens guilty of murder, but recommended him to the mercy of the court. Sentence was passed, immediately by Judge W. W. Stark, of Commerce, who presided over the trial.

Mrs. Givens was killed on May 13. Witnesses testified that the farmer shot and killed his wife in the yard of their home while she was attempting to halt him from carrying out a threat to kill a neighbor. In his statement to the jury, Givens said he was drunk at the time of the shooting and asserted that he did not "know what he was doing."

The prosecution was directed by Colonel Clifford Pratt, of Winder, solicitor general of the Piedmont circuit.

FORESTERS TO VISIT GEORGIA PINE BELT

Fifty Leading Experts To Make Survey of South
Georgia Section.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 14.—The National Association of State Foresters, which will visit Georgia about the middle of November, will be guests in Waycross and Coddell, center of the pine belt of south Georgia, according to plans announced here by Alex K. Sessoms, prominently known south Georgia landowner and member of the state forestry board.

The group of foresters, including approximately 50 of the leading forestry experts of the United States, will spend the night of November 16 in Waycross, and on the following morning will go to Coddell over the private railroad owned by Mr. Sessoms. En route to Coddell they will stop for an inspection of stump-pulling operations at a camp of the Hercules Powder Company, and at Coddell will observe methods used in the operation of the mammoth French steam type turpentine still now being used by Mr. Sessoms. Fire prevention methods in the forests around Coddell also will be studied.

Mr. Sessoms will co-operate with B. M. Lufburrow, state forester, in making plans for the visit of the national foresters to south Georgia.

JUDGE M. J. YEOMANS REMOVES TO DECATUR

Well-Known Jurist Leaves
Dawson After Years in Public Service.

DAWSON, Ga., Sept. 14.—M. J. Yeomans, ex-judge of the superior courts of the Patula judicial circuit, who, for the past 38 years, has been a resident of Dawson, will move his family during the week to Decatur, according to announcement made here today. Business interest in Atlanta, it is said, necessitated Judge Yeomans' removal from Dawson.

In 1893 Mr. Yeomans came to Dawson to accept a position as superintendent of the city schools. While in this position he studied for the state bar examination, which he passed in 1896. He then resigned his position with the public schools of Dawson and began practicing law in Dawson.

Two years after being admitted to the bar Mr. Yeomans was named solicitor of the city of Dawson. He retained this position until 1910. Five years later he was named to represent Terrell county in the legislature. In this office he held until 1917. While acting as legislator he was author of the Yeomans school book bill. This bill provided that schoolbooks could not be contracted for in the state of Georgia at a higher price than they were being sold in any other state in the Union. At that time the passage of the bill reduced the number of books approximately 25 per cent.

He was also one of the men who put in shape the bill that now is the state prohibition law. He was a member of a committee of three that shaped a bill under which the Western & Atlantic railroad, a state-owned line, was leased for a period of 60 years.

In 1916 Mr. Yeomans was named division council for the Central of Georgia railway. This position he held until 1925, when he was made judge of the superior courts of the Patula judicial circuit, which office he held until January of 1931. For a number of years, prior to his election to the judiciary, he was a partner of H. A. Wilkinson in the well-known law firm of Yeomans & Wilkinson of this city.

Judge Yeomans is a member of the Sigma Nu college fraternity, a Knight of Pythias, a member of the Woodmen of the World, Elks, the Masonic Order and the Methodist church.

Paved Road to Resorts Provided Thomasville

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Sept. 14.—The opening last week, in its entirety, of a paved highway from Waycross to Brunswick, gives Thomasville for the first time an all-paved automobile road from here to the two leading Georgia resort cities, Savannah and Brunswick. The road, which is the largest of this section with which Thomasville was connected by unpaved pavement, was August 1, 1931, and Jacksonville, Fla. A paved route to Augusta, via Waycross, has been open for more than a year, and there have for some time been paved routes to Jacksonville—by Quitman, Ga., and Madison, Fla.; by Valdosta, Ga., and Lake City, Fla.; and by Waycross, Ga., to the direct Jacksonville.

This town is still without an all-paved route to either Macon or Atlanta, except by the very indirect route from here to Jacksonville, and thence north over the National highway.

HOOVER'S JOB PLAN SCORED BY DR. MELL

Baptist Leader Also Flays
Long's No Cotton Proposal in Athens Speech.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 14.—(P)—Dr. John D. Mell, former president of the Georgia Baptist convention, speaking before a conference of ministers here today, expressed disapproval of both the Hoover administration jobless relief policy in regard to the distribution of farm board wheat and the Long "no-cotton-in-1932" plan.

He was addressing the northeast Georgia Baptist ministerial conference and his topic was: "What Can the Church Do to Help the Unemployment Situation?"

Dr. Mell said the Long plan would, if enforced, result in starvation for those who plant no cotton next year. He also expressed the belief that such a law could not be enforced.

He said that if he were president he would distribute the wheat held by the government to the hungry.

"Hoover distributed wheat to the starving Belgians," Dr. Mell said, "why cannot he distribute wheat to the starving people of his own country?"

The other speakers on the program was Dr. H. C. Orr, pastor of the West End Baptist Church of Athens.

COURT TERM OPENED BY JUDGE CRAWLEY

WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 14.—City court opens in Waycross next Monday for the regular September term, indications pointing to a heavy criminal docket. There are more than 40 prisoners in the Ware county jail, and next week's session of court is expected to reduce the number considerably.

Judge J. L. Crawley will preside over the court, with the state's affairs directed by Solicitor Will C. Parker. Jury summonses already have been served under the direction of Sheriff L. C. Warren.

Looking at Life by The Observer

If I Didn't Want to Go
Bankrupt

If I were going into business and I didn't want to go bankrupt, I believe I would take out good strong line of life insurance. There seems to be a pretty close connection between business failures and lack of adequate life insurance protection.

In their analysis of reasons why 500 firms failed, the United States Department of Commerce and the University of Chicago found that one-third of the individuals investigated carried no life insurance at all, and a fourth of the total had less than $2,000. Only half as many failed who had even $2,000 to $3,000 in life insurance.

There is a reason. Life insurance is the best credit security a business man can have. Bankers, manufacturers, wholesalers and others from whom business men buy merchandise or credit recognize this fact. Especially is this true of partnerships and individual proprietorships, when the death of an owner may mean the end of the business. Life insurance improves the owner's credit while living because it protects the creditors in the event of his death.

But even in the best managed business there may come an emergency where all ordinary sources of credit fail. The business man who carries an adequate amount of life insurance still has one valuable resource left. There is nothing upon which money can be borrowed so quickly, so surely, and on such favorable terms as on life insurance.

Often the margin between business success and failure resolves itself into a pitifully small sum, and very, very often business men have cause to give thanks that they have accumulated that sum in the reserves represented by business life insurance policies.

Yes, if I were going into business, I'd buy some business insurance protection. And I would turn to a company like Pacific Mutual, which from long experience in developing personal insurance protection to meet the many contingencies of life, has acquired a keen appreciation of the business value of life insurance and has planned policies to fit every business need. Would you like to read the facts about some of these policies? Your name and address on the coupon below will bring full details promptly.

Negro Driver Captured After Injuring Child

A two-hour chase by bloodhounds and county police ended in the capture late Monday afternoon of Charlie Sinkfield, 54, colored, of Center Hill, who is held without bond at police headquarters charged with assault with intent to murder Dorothy Stowers six years old. The girl was walking along the side of the Bankhead highway near her home Monday when an automobile driven by Sinkfield struck her and knocked her down.

The negro stopped the car and ran off into a nearby woods. The child was taken to Grady hospital where an examination revealed that she had suffered a fracture of the skull and internal injuries, which attendants said might prove fatal.

County Policemen Jack Carroll and Ernest Hornsby, assisted by a posse of neighbors of the child, obtained bloodhounds from the South convict camp and started a pursuit, which ended two hours later near the Center Hill district.

Sinkfield was brought into the police station badly spent from his dash to escape, and peppered with birdshot.

HUDSON-RAMSEY WEDDING DATE SET FOR FRIDAY, OCT. 9

Date Comes on Anniversary Of Parents of Bride-Elect

Of interest to society is the announcement made today of the wedding plans of Miss Martha Sarah Hudson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hudson, and Willis Alan Ramsey. The marriage will take place Friday, October 9, at 8 o'clock at the Associate Reformed Presbyterian church, on Highland avenue at Hudson drive. Particular sentiment is attached to this date as it marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of the bride-elect's father and mother and the fifty-third anniversary of the wedding of the bridegroom-to-be's maternal grandparents, Mrs. William Little, of Louisville, Ga., and the late Mr. Little. Another feature of interest is that the pastor, Dr. D. G. Phillips, who will perform the ceremony, is the son of the pastor who officiated at the wedding of the bride-elect's paternal grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas Hudson, and also the maternal grandparents of the future bridegroom, Mrs. Little, and the late Mr. Little. Dr. C. B. Williams will assist in performing the service.

The bride-to-be will be given in marriage by her father, R. J. Hudson, and she has chosen her sister, Miss Imogene Hudson, to act as her maid-of-honor. Her mother, Mrs. R. J. Hudson, will be her daughter's matron of honor. The bridesmaids include Miss Elizabeth McWhorter, of Nashville, Tenn., and Miss Ethel McWhorter, of Memphis, Tenn., who were classmates of the bride-elect at Randolph-Macon College, Lynchburg, Va. Mr. Ramsey will have as his best man his brother, Robert Ramsey, and the groomsmen will be William Ramsey and Norman Ramsey, brothers of the bridegroom-elect; William Clark and Stephen Millet, of Garden City, La. Acting as ushers will be Dr. Marion Hull, Dr. J. P. Kennedy, C. P. Phillips and Charles Anely. During the ceremony Mrs. Ethel Russell will play the same musical selection that was played at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Hudson, "Hearts and Flowers."

Preceding her marriage Miss Hudson will be entertained at a series of parties. Mrs. Paul Beavers will be hostess at a party at 1 o'clock at her home on Emory circle Friday, September 18. Following the luncheon there will be a miscellaneous shower. Assisting the hostess in entertaining will be Mrs. E. L. Bell, Mrs. E. T. Fuller and Mrs. J. A. Simpson. Tuesday, September 22, Miss Ruth Hendrix will entertain at a bridge party at 2:30 o'clock. Miss Helene Ramsey, sister of the bridegroom-to-be, will be hostess at luncheon Thursday, September 24. Miss Louise Hester will honor Miss Hudson Thursday, October 1, at a bridge party and Tuesday, October 6, Mrs. R. J. Hudson will give a trousseau tea at her home on Sherman drive, honoring her daughter. Miss Sarah Davis will entertain Wednesday, October 7, at her home on The Prado at a luncheon and miscellaneous shower. There will be no reception following the wedding ceremony but Mr. and Mrs. Hudson, parents of the bride-elect, will entertain at a buffet supper after the wedding rehearsal Thursday, October 8. Others who will entertain in honor of Miss Hudson include Miss Annie Bratton, Mrs. Robert Lansell, Mrs. O. L. McGowan, Mrs. Carson Saville and Mrs. Joseph H. Singer.

Culbertson on Contract

BY ELY CULBERTSON,

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

The Immaterial Trick

It is the mark of a good Contract player to place but little value upon an immaterial trick. In the process of becoming a good Contract player one learns that several immaterial tricks may be sacrificed if a chance of such sacrifice there is a chance that a material trick can be gained. The material trick for the Declarer is the one that makes the contract. The material trick for the defending player is the one by which the contract is defeated. The sacrifice of an immaterial trick to gain several material tricks later is a device too little used in defense, particularly by players who have at the end of the game a competition against those more expert in play.

I had a letter the other day in which the writer said that while she enjoyed my articles very much, some of the problems of play presented were too difficult for her to apply. The story of today's hand is so simple that it should be readily assimilable by the novice at the Contract table, but still is not applied nearly frequently enough. Many a game has been made that should have been defeated because the defending players were too anxious to cash their apparent tricks, forgetting, or disregarding, the fact that honors are given to protect your low cards and to make them into trick winners, rather than trashing them as discards on the Declarer's established low-card tricks.

STUBTAIL THE MOUNTAIN BEAVER.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The law of life finds no excuse. For anything that's not of use. —Old Mother Nature.

Stubtail the Mountain Beaver was much disturbed. He didn't like visitors excepting Mr. and Mrs. Kiser, who were especially fond of him. He was a creature called man. So, when all unsuspecting that one was near, he had come out to discover Farmer Brown's boy sitting close by one of his doorways he was quite upset. He had darted back and he had kept on along a long tunnel until he finally reached his snug home underground some distance away. There he had remained until night.

"I should have known better than to go out in daytime, even if it was a dark day," he grumbled to Mrs. Stubtail. "It is queer how folks will do things they know they shouldn't do. Well, I hope that that creature isn't going to stay around here long. I never feel easy when one of them is about."

"These fern roots are very good, unusually good my dear; try some," remarked Mrs. Stubtail by way of changing the subject. "They ought to be; I worked hard enough to get them," grumbled Stubtail. Mrs. Stubtail grinned. "Did you?" she asked mildly.

"Yes, I did," snapped Stubtail, for he was still out of humor, due to the scare he had had. Mrs. Stubtail chuckled right out. "They look to me exactly like the ones I got," said she. "If you will run outside and think you are a little better, you will find that they are just what you need. You dug still out where you left them to be cured."

Farmer Brown's boy had thought that Stubtail had no tail, but in this he was mistaken. He has a long, teeny, teeny tail, which is hardly enough of a tail to be called one. In this respect he is like Buster Bear. But in no other respect is he like Buster Bear. Nor is he at all like Paddy the Beaver, despite his name of Mountain Beaver. The fact is he has no near relatives; none at all. He is an independent little fellow who lives his own way and asks only to be left alone.

It was because he was so thrifty that he had thought to improve the dark day, and so had encountered Farmer Brown's boy. "I ought to have known better than to go out so early," he kept mumbling as he tried to sleep and couldn't. I ought to have known better. I wonder what that fellow was doing around here, anyway."

The next story: "Stubtail Has a Strange Experience."

CIRCUS AGENT'S DEATH IS DECLARED SUICIDE

WEST BADEN, Ind., Sept. 14.—(AP)—A verdict of suicide has been returned by a coroner jury in the death of W. M. (Eugene) Thompson, Richmond, Va., who fired a bullet into his brain at a hotel here Friday night.

Thompson, identified with circuses through most of the 55 years of his life, had served as transportation superintendent with most of the large circuses. He was connected with the Gentry Brothers Shows of Bloomington, Ind., during the summer season.

He announced his plan after a conference today with State Treasurer Larry Brunk and Prosecuting Attorney Mike Sevier, of this county. Brunk outlined to the governor the results of his recent investigations into the clerical pay roll situation.

Assistant State Attorney V. R. Fisher began an investigation today. The shooting was accidental, Mrs. Burchfield said.

Mrs. Burchfield told sheriff's deputies last night she and her sister were examining the pistol when it was accidentally discharged. She was not taken in custody.

There were no eye-witnesses to the shooting, so far as could be learned, although relatives in the house heard the shots.

Miss Stephens' Play, "Barbed Wire," Goes Into Rehearsal in New York City

BY BESSIE S. STAFFORD.

Among the interesting plays to be presented in New York in October will be "Barbed Wire," written by Miss Nan Stephens, talented Atlanta playwright, rehearsals having been under way for several days, with its premiere scheduled for October 20, to take place in a Brooklyn theater.

Laid in Georgia. The plot of the play is laid within the walls of the state prison at Milledgeville, Ga., and Lillian Hogarth, that well-known star, depicts the character of a woman taking the blame and the sentence for a murder committed by her husband, relying on the tradition that a Georgia woman is seldom hanged for crime.

Albert G. West, brother of Wylie West, a former Atlantaan, is stage manager, and Dodd Akerman, another former Atlantaan, is designing the sets. The cast includes 90 people, and the scenes, many in number, move in rapid and vivid sequence, telling the story in a highly entertaining and convincing manner. Ellwood F. Bostwick, producer of "Dear Old England," will produce "Barbed Wire."

Miss Stephens has been in the metropolis since last May, having been called there in regard to the production of a play, which is of brilliant construction and dialogue. She held the chair of playwriting at Agnes Scott College for several years and helped to organize the work of the Atlanta Drama Workshop, an organization which dealt entirely with theatrical productions.

Miss Stephens, aside from writing several successful plays of her own, has arranged the negro spirituals used in those of Miss Stephens.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Every week I receive enough letters on the topic of getting to fill the six columns of the week in interest in the momentous question. I group them, allude to them under different topics, and consign the unsigned question about getting to the files. "The Unsigned Letter Graveyard."

Recently a letter, written by a very intelligent young girl giving her experiences as one who refused to get to a high school boy: "Do the high school girls."

"I can't truthfully say they do. I hear about it but I have no first-hand knowledge of it. I imagine they are like all the other girls. Some do and some don't."

To a high school boy: "Do the high school girls."

And so age seventeen disposes of the question. To a young man of twenty-five:

"Do you have a date every night?"

"No, very seldom. I can't afford to have a date every night. The girls expect you to take them to ride or to a show and I have not and can't afford to buy two show tickets. It's either that, or sit at home and pet, and I can use my time to better advantage."

"Then why do you indulge in petting if it doesn't amuse you?"

"Because the girls expect it and it's up to a man to give the girl what she expects."

To a young man of twenty I reported these arrangements of the modern girl and his reply was: "I should say seventy-five per cent of the petting is started by the girls and if they think their popularity hinges on such behavior they are mistaken and they will all find out their mistake before they finish with the subject."

When I get letters from girls, hereafter, who bemoan the necessity for compromising their ideas of what is ladylike and becoming, I will send them these three boys and the worldly wisdom that is contained in their simple statements of the truth as they see it. They convinced me that the slipper fits the foot of the modern Cinderella.

Say some: "It's only a tempest in a teapot." Say others: "The world is going to the dogs." Say others: "Modesty is dead and it died in ancient Rome." All are wrong, no doubt. Modesty is not dead, the world is not going to the dogs, the tempest is not in the teapot. When the truth comes home to these misguided girls and they realize that they are throwing away something that is priceless, something they cannot buy back once it is sacrificed, they will call a halt. Not all of them. There have been immodest women since the world began. There have been women who discounted themselves and their sex in every generation. But the vast majority of them have been clean, high-minded, and they are and will continue to be the mothers of the girls who behave themselves and ask no less of their men.

BEAUTY FASHIONS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—President Hoover tonight obtained a first hand picture of business conditions throughout the country at a White House dinner conference with the Federal Reserve Board's advisory council and Eugene Meyer, governor of the board.

White House officials said there was no special significance to the meeting, but that the bankers merely were invited to dinner and an informal talk during their regular quarterly session here. This session will convene tomorrow.

The advisory council is composed of one member from each of the twelve federal reserve districts. It acts only in an advisory capacity, having no authority other than to make recommendations to the reserve board. Its discussions are never made public and only rarely are its recommendations announced.

The council is expected to report to the board at tomorrow's session. The White House list of those attending the dinner did not include L. A. McKinney, of Dallas, president of the council.

Besides Governor Meyer, those who dined with the president were Herbert H. Hallett, Boston; Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago; R. H. Freeman, Philadelphia; J. A. House, Cleveland; John Poole, Washington, D. C.; John K. Otley, Atlanta; Walter W. Starke, St. Louis; George H. Prince, St. Paul; Walter S. McLucas, Kansas City, and Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles, and Walter Lichstein, Chicago, secretary of the council.

Several weeks ago Mr. Hoover consulted three New York bank officials on the state of business. Robinson, a close friend of the president, has been a frequent week-end visitor to the Hoover camp in Virginia.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

But the woman was unaware of both the dignity and hostility. She almost ran up the porch steps, held out a short, fat arm to Fabia, and panted, "How do you do?" her face covered with a network of genial wrinkles. "I'm sorry no one was home. I been in town shopping. I declare, listen to that dog! Be quiet, Bud! Be quiet! He's just about crazy! He's left alone. Are you one of the Girl Scout leaders?"

"No, I'm not," Fabia hastened to reply. "Are you Mrs. Daniel Regan?"

The woman had turned toward the door with her key now. "Yes, that's me," she replied, turning around. "I know what you are now," her smile was arch and playful. "And I'm real glad I got home before you went. You're one of the young ladies on the neighborhood committee down at our church, and I'm on your calling list."

"No, no, I'm not," again Fabia hastened to deny. "I'm here on business."

"Oh, business! Well, that's interesting. I'll just get my bundles and then you come in and tell me about it."

"I'll get them," said Fabia, her training working quicker than her judgment. She had come to make trouble for this woman.

"That's real sweet of you," said the woman. "Lands! Listen to that dog. Be still, Buddie. Be still!"—and she turned and unlocked the door.

The sitting room was furnished with plum-colored figured plush and two armchairs to match, very thick in the arms and back; an oak morris chair with leather cushions; a red mahogany center table with curved legs; a combination desk and bookcase; an upright piano; a radio; several smoking stands; a pipe rack; a Boston fern and a rubber plant. Fabia sat down on the edge of a morris chair and gazed about her with wondering eyes.

Through a wide opening opposite she could see the dining room. There was a table in the middle, all set evidently for the next meal. A very large piece of chessboard was spread over it to protect the dishes from dust. There was a couch in the dining room, with a raised headpiece; a roll-top desk (Fabia had never seen one before); a sewing machine, and a canary bird in a round cage.

When Mrs. Regan reappeared, the dog was dangled from under an arm. Evidently she had not glanced into the mirror since removing her hat.

Her hair—white as Grandmother's—was very untidy. She had very red cheeks. They were covered with a network of dark red veins—like a red velvet begonia leaf, thought Fabia, when you hold it up to the light.

"Now," she said pleasantly, "I can talk a little while. What you got to sell, dearie?"

"I've nothing to sell. Will your husband be home soon? It's your husband I've come to see."

"He ought to. He's a foreman down in that big brick yard you must have passed on your way here. While we're waiting, let's have some tea. All I had for my dinner was a cup of coffee and a sandwich at a Waldorf."

Fabia had nothing for her lunch, but she shook her head emphatically. "No, I don't care for any tea, thank you." Of all things she must not accept hospitality from this woman.

"Well, I'm going to have a cup. You can come out in the kitchen and watch me. I got to get things started for supper, too. Your home around here?"

"Not very far away. I'll sit here if you don't mind."

"Suit yourself, dearie. I'll bring the tea in—and perhaps I can tempt you with a bit of cake—or something. I don't see many people. I just get sick for people coming here. I don't like living down here very well. We used to live in the city—but the doctor said my little boy Jimmie might pick up if I'd take him every day and give him sun-baths on the sand. But it was too late. We didn't move back afterwards, because it's so convenient to Daniel's work—and he does love his patch of sand. He's got a real nice garden in the back. You'll excuse me, dearie, won't you?" She stood up. "Come, Buddie, we'll start some tea."

Daniel Regan arrived before the tea was ready. It was dusk when from the front window of the bungalow Fabia saw an automobile draw up. This was the automobile that had killed Thad! It bore the incriminating number. It was a touring car, of some old make with which she was not familiar. Its top was raised and its side curtains lowered.

From out of the back seat she saw the figure of a man emerge, in loose shapless clothes and a visor cap. He carried a box in one hand—a lunch box evidently. He placed it on the running-board and then extricated a bicycle from the back of the car. He entered through the kitchen. Fabia heard another vociferous greeting from the dog.

"Good evening," he said a moment later in a big, hearty voice. Fabia stood up.

"Good evening," he replied pleasantly. "What can I do for you?" he inquired, as if in the habit of granting favors.

He was a very tall man and very powerful looking. His hair was black and thick, and grew with a sort of virulence and flowing grace. There were a few white hairs in it, as evenly distributed as if set in separately—like the white hairs in imitation pointed fox. He had very heavy eyebrows, and the lower part of his face looked sooty.

In appearance Daniel Regan was all his name had suggested to Fabia. But she was not afraid of him.

"Is this your name and address and the number of your car?" she inquired, with all the hauteur she had inherited and acquired, and she handed him a piece of paper.

The man took it in a hand covered with long black curling hairs. "It sure is," he replied pleasantly. "Where'd you get it?"

"At registration headquarters," Fabia ignored this comment. "Last night at 6 o'clock," she said, "or possibly a little after, you ran over a dog, Mr. Regan, with your automobile and didn't stop. It was my dog. He has died since. I have come to tell you I have put the case into the hands of the best lawyer I can find."

"Look here, Miss, will you say that over again, and slower."

Fabia, standing a little straighter, and with even more hauteur, repeated her last speech.

"Why, Daniel, what's she saying?" suddenly burst out Mrs. Regan from somewhere in the rear. "What's she talking about?"

"He ran over my dog, Mrs. Regan, and left him dying on the side of the road last night at 6 o'clock."

"Why, he didn't say such thing. He was here, setting right in that morris chair, smoking his pipe, last night at 6 o'clock."

"Be still, Lizzie," Mr. Regan flung back at his wife quietly. "It was right before last. I was setting here smokin' my pipe."

"Why, Daniel Regan—" "You keep out of this, Lizzie," he ordered. "This is my number. You can run over a dog in the dark and never know it."

"Oh, you knew it, Mr. Regan! You loved down, you remember. That's how I got your number."

"Well, that's interesting. Say, let's you and me set down and you tell me just where and how all this happened."

"My lawyer will tell you that. I came just to tell you a man can't do a thing like that and get off scot-free."

"My, but you got a lot of spunk! Now, you say it was about 6 o'clock last night. Just what part of town was it? I was all over last night."

Before Fabia could answer, the front door swung open. A young man entered—a tall young man—a tall, dark young man—a tall, dark, familiar young man.

At first Fabia could not believe her eyes. It had been so dark in the laundry. Was this really the young doctor, or did he just resemble him? She stared at him speechless. He stood back, also speechless, his hand still on the knob of the door.

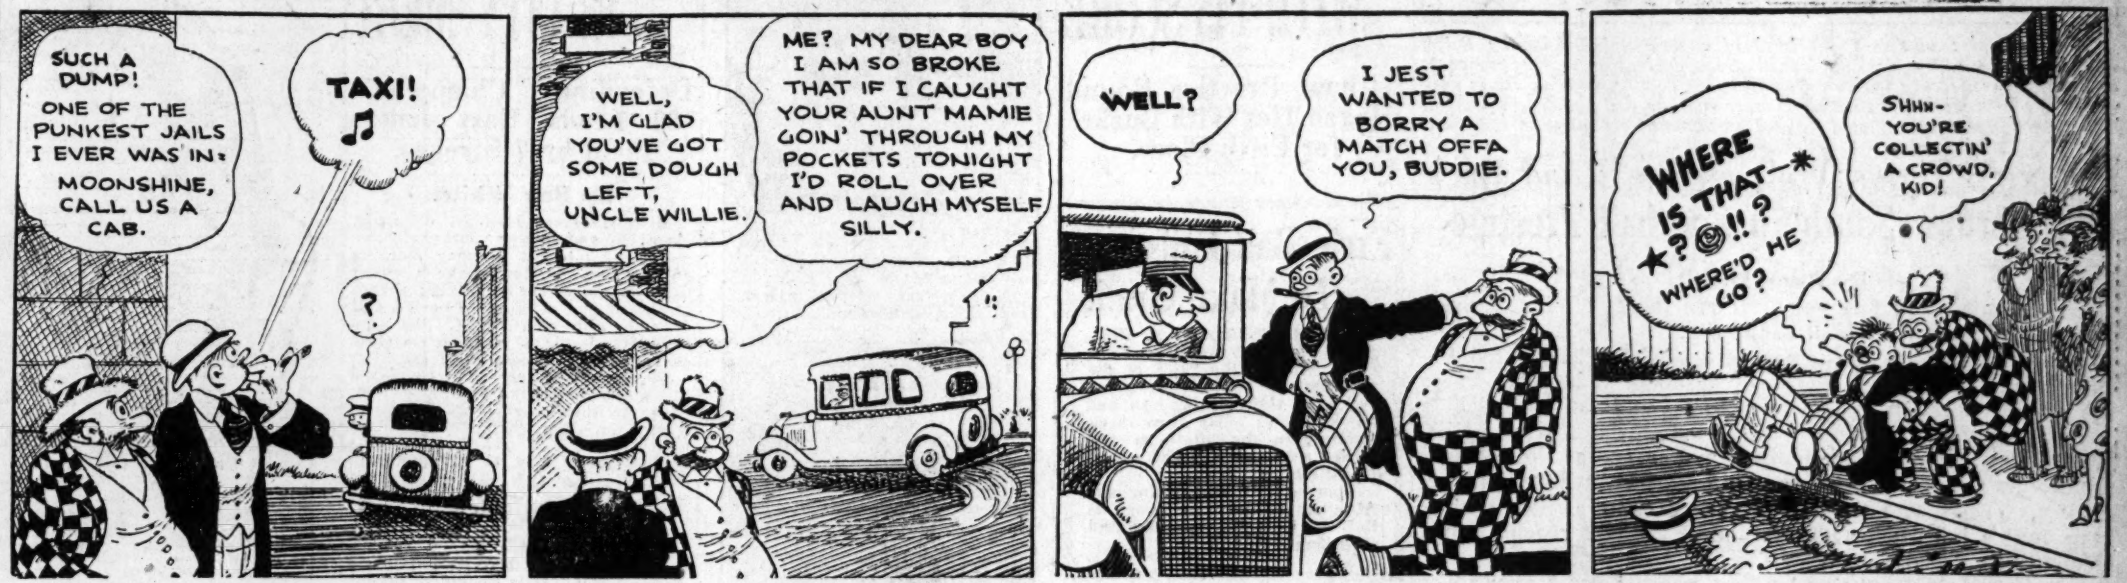

"This is my son, Miss. Come in. Dan, this young lady says I ran over her dog last night and killed him when I was out with the car about 6 o'clock. You remember I was out with the car, Dan."

"Thanks, dad," said the young man shortly, crisply, tossing his hat upon a chair. "But that is my affair. I know this young lady. I'd like to talk to her alone, please."

Myers and Barrow Out of Petrel Practice One Week With Injuries

ROBBY' STARTS THIRD BIG WEEK AT OGLETHORPE

Jeff Bolden Is Back in Uniform for Easy Work.

By Jack Troy.

Dapper Myers, half or fullback, and Dave Barrow, sophomore tackle, both potential members of the Oglethorpe varsity eleven, have suffered strained muscles and probably won't be available for practice this week. It was disclosed in the opening workout of the third week yesterday.

Myers is suffering with a back ailment, which he sustained in scrimmage last week when he was kneed by a freshman player, and Barrow strained an abdominal muscle yesterday. Myers possibly will return to the squad this week-end, but Barrow is expected to be out for at least a week.

Meanwhile, Coach Harry Robertson has Pug Pickard and Don Aderhold alternating in Barrow's vacated tackle position, while John Putno, powerful junior player, is being used at full in the tentative first team backfield.

OLD INJURY.

Pickard hasn't fully recovered from a leg injury of last season, however, and there is some question as to whether the member is going to hold up. He has been constantly bothered with it during the current training season. Aderhold, on the other hand, is developing fast and from indications will see a lion's share of playing this season.

Coach Robertson inaugurated the third week of drilling with a comparatively light workout yesterday. The squad tackled the dummy, combated the bucking machine, ran up punts, drilled in passing and receiving and wound up with a snappy signal drill.

Jeff Bolden, 215-pound sophomore fullback, was back in uniform after a week's absence, but was unable to place much weight on his injured foot. Bolden dislocated a toe which is slow in responding to treatment. With his recovery a triple-threat back of considerable promise will be added to the Petrel roster.

THE LINEUPS.

In the tentative first-string backfield yesterday were Frank Anderson and Ray Miller, alternating at quarterback, Lefty Sybert and Harry Wren, halfbacks, and Putno, fullback. The forward wall line up the same as before, with the exception of Pickard in place of Barrow. Captain Parker Bryant and Charley George were at ends, Dan Kenzie paired with Pickard at tackles, Paul Goldsmith and John Patrick ran at guards, and Andy Morrow was at center.

The second-string backfield included Claude Herrin, quarter; Nammie Gaines and Sam Baker, halfbacks, and Jack Harrison, fullback. Shorty Roberts, brilliant freshman back, has decided to enter Georgia Tech, it was learned yesterday. His selection of schools available only at an engineering school was the reason ascribed.

Scrimmage—long and hard—is scheduled for the Petrels today.

AIR LINE DEATHS SHOW DECREASE

The aeronautics branch of the commerce department said today nine passengers and five pilots were killed during the period as compared with 22 passengers and 5 pilots during the same period in 1930.

During the first six months of this year, 20,304,430 miles were flown in scheduled operations as compared with 16,902,728 miles in 1930. There were 61 accidents this year as compared with 44 last year and the mileage per accident decreased.

ATHLETICS NEED TWO VICTORIES TO CINCH FLAG

Even Break With Indians as Nats' Triumph Delays Things.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(UP)—

The clinching of the 1931 American league pennant for the Philadelphia Athletics was delayed today when the Athletics were held to an even break in a double-header with Cleveland. Washington's second place Senators won from St. Louis, and cut the Athletics' lead to 12 1-2 games.

Philadelphia still has 13 games to play and Washington 14, making it necessary for the A's to take two more games to clinch the pennant. Willis Hudlin gave Cleveland a 6-2 victory over the champions in the first game of the double-header, allowing only nine scattered hits while his mates found Walberg and Rommel for 15. A six-run rally in the fourth gave the Athletics the second game, 9 to 7.

SENATORS WIN.

Washington beat St. Louis, 6 to 3, with Marberry and Hadley holding the Browns to four hits.

The New York Yankees staged a late rally to defeat Detroit, 2 to 1. The Yanks were held scoreless for the first seven innings, but after a 45-minute delay because of rain, put over the winning runs.

Ten runs scored in the seventh and eighth innings gave Boston a 12-8 triumph over the Chicago White Sox. The Red Sox tallied six runs in the seventh on five hits, two walks and a stolen base, but Chicago counted four times in the eighth to tie the score at eight-al. Boston continued its onslaught against Garland and added the winning runs.

CARDS SLUG.

Only two games were played in the National league, St. Louis winning a double-header from Philadelphia, 13 to 5 and 10 to 3. The double victory increased the Cards' lead over the second place New York Giants to 10 games with only 11 games remaining to be played.

The Cards clinched the first game with a five-run attack in the first inning and continued their hitting throughout the game, gathering 17 safe blows off three pitchers. Stout allowed the Phils 14 hits but never was in danger after the first.

The Cards also won the second game, 10 to 3, behind the able pitching of Flint Rhem, who allowed the Phils only nine scattered hits. Blake and Watt were touched for 15 hits. Chick Hafey hit a home run in each game.

Bulldogs Hold Secret Practice; First Scrimmage Set for Saturday

NIGHT GUARDS IN KEEN FIGHT FOR POSITIONS

Patterson, Bennett Most Serious Rivals for Redheads This Season.

By Al Smith.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Secret practice was inaugurated by Coach Harry Mehre at the Bulldog camp today, and such will be the procedure for the next four days this week. The first scrimmage has been set for Saturday, and the boys still have plenty of work to do on the fundamentals before they are ready to go in and mix it up with each other. They will be required to do five days of now.

One thing is certain. There will be a scarcity of capable guards among the Bulldogs this fall, unless injuries like too heavy a toll among Coach Mehre's interference-running linemen. That much was ascertained this afternoon as four different sets of guards, guards that looked good, ran signals with the four teams Harry Mehre had in action. Eight guards, all of them hard workers, and four of them veterans of two of the hard-fought campaigns Georgia has ever had, that more could a coach ask in the latter of guards?

There were, for instance, the two dihedra, Leathers and Maddox, who have been playing together so long they think alike in a football game, and what they think is—get the man with the ball. Be it herewith sworn, they get that man quite a lot. The dihedra were both mentioned for All-Southern honors last fall.

And now let's take into consideration two other young men who also have been playing guard for the Bulldogs for the past two years, Jimmy Patterson and Tiger Bennett. Tiger and Jim are about as good as the red-heads. In fact their followers are quite sure they are better than the dihedra. Be that as it may, the two have already served notice to Leathers and Maddox that those guard positions are not sewed up yet, and won't be any time soon.

Harry Mehre has his eye on the two this fall. Heretofore, the red-heads have been first-string guards, but this year Mehre himself isn't so sure this will be the case. Both Bennett and Patterson played good football last fall. It was Bennett who got up there in the bowl last October and fixed things up for Yale. He played 55 minutes of that game.

But there are a couple of other young men who must also be considered when discussing Georgia's guards. They are sophomores and their names are Hut Parks and John Brown. Parks, who was a combination end and back on the freshman team, weighs 153, and is short and stubby with the sort of power it takes to get down on a line and mess things up. Brown, who has played guard for several years—as a freshman and in high school—weighs 184. He is tall and well built and has shown a vast improvement over his play as a freshman.

Billy Fuller and Billy Hazlehurst are the last of the eight guards. Fuller, an Atlanta boy, weighs but 153, while Hazlehurst, a reserve last fall, weighs the scales at 170. They look small compared with the other guards and giant tackles, but what they lack in weight they make up in fighting ability. They should see some service this fall. And, by the way, wasn't there an all-American guard at Notre Dame last fall who weighed 164? So Harry shouldn't lose any sleep worrying about his guards this fall. Unless, of course, those bothersome injuries crop up.

TENNESSEE BOY HELD IN MURDER OF WOMAN

MORRISTOWN, Tenn., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Behind jail bars, a 17-year-old boy sobbed today and told officers he accidentally shot and killed Miss Lucy Parvin, 75, as she lay asleep Sunday night at the home of her niece, Mrs. Joe Bryant, near Bulls Gap.

Harrison Bryant, son of the Bryant family, was arrested after neighbors told officers they saw him leaving the home after hearing a shot.

The aged woman was shot in the head with a double-barreled shotgun from an adjoining room.

Deputy Sheriff R. L. Webster said the youth admitted the shooting, claiming he was playing with the shotgun in which he believed unloaded. Webster said there were no witnesses to the shooting.

CHICAGO OPENS DRIVE FOR 1932 CONVENTIONS

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A citizens' committee set in motion today a campaign to bring the national democratic and republican conventions of 1932 to Chicago, and made known that 35 per cent of the national committee men have already signified preference for this city.

YOUNG AMBUSH VICTIM SUCCUMBS TO WOUNDS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Larion Smith, 14, shot from ambush August 15, died at a hospital today, and a charge of first degree murder was placed against Seville Holland, a farmer residing near here.

Marion, his father, H. S. Smith, and Emmett Birchfield, were returning to their farm home from a church festival when they were fired upon. The elder Smith and Birchfield were not seriously wounded.

After the shooting officers quoted Holland as saying that he was "sorry he shot the kid," but added he intended to kill the boy's companions, because of alleged attentions paid Mrs. Holland.

Dan McGugin Says Vols Have Chance for Great Season

friend, Cannon, of Notre Dame, at Georgia Tech. Josh Cody, head coach at Clemson for the last three years, where he made a real record, has come back home to Vanderbilt.

GREAT TACKLE.

Josh was one of the great all-time tackles at Vanderbilt, captain of a team, on the coaching staff a number of times and has developed remarkably during the years he has been on his own feet at Clemson.

Just how fortunate Vanderbilt is and just how grateful the writer is for the return of Josh Cody, nobody but the writer understands. I know him to be a man of character, of energy and one of the country's great coaches.

The followers of football have an idea that an experienced coach can pick the winner in every game, and that he can pick the places in the order in which conference teams will finish the season.

An experienced coach is a judge of materials, of systems and of the soundness in coaching. Little things determine the course of the game and sometimes the weaker team wins. Very often a stronger team, because of a series of previous hard games, loses to a weaker team which has played a weak schedule. Some of the nine teams mentioned above have about three hard games with rest periods between.

TERRIFIC SCHEDULES.

Among others Georgia, Georgia Tech, and Vanderbilt have terrific schedules. Vanderbilt meets North Carolina, Ohio State, Tulane, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Maryland, Tennessee and Alabama in succession. The schedules of Georgia, and Georgia Tech are equally hard. It is conceivable that any one of these three teams might lose three, four or five games to teams not quite as strong and which could be defeated in a schedule with adequate rest periods.

Teams should be judged at the final whistle in large part by what they have attempted as well as by what they have achieved.

My guess would be that Tennessee has the best chance of any team in the conference to go through the schedule undefeated. Her schedule is not as hard as those of teams mentioned. She has fine coaching and a sound system, had perhaps the best freshman team in the south last year, being strong enough to defeat Vanderbilt 50 to 0, and carried over an abundance of good material.

It is true she has lost Dodd, a wonderful quarterback, and a magnificent running halfback in Hackman, a player whose real ability was probably never adequately appraised. McEver, a truly great back, has returned.

FINE NEW MATERIAL.

Tennessee has outstanding backs in Feathers, Wyne and others coming over from the freshman team, and she has an abundance of veteran line material.

Georgia, Vanderbilt, Alabama, Tulane, Kentucky and North Carolina have an abundance of veteran material and good men coming over from freshman teams. Florida and Georgia Tech have suffered many losses through graduation. Tulane with a brilliant team last year, returned for the most part, and with a schedule not as difficult as some, has a good chance to go through undefeated. Alabama lost many veterans, but still returns a wonderful squad, and, as her schedule is not as difficult as some, may go through the season undefeated. North Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt will undoubtedly lose some football games.

The hard schedules have their advantages in that the men can look forward to good contests every Saturday and coaches are thereby enabled to give more men an opportunity to play.

The remainder of the schedule, consisting of Tulane, Alabama, Tennessee, Southwestern, Marquette University, Sewanee, J. S. U. and Mississippi A. & M., still stands.

Babe Ruth Has Run 41 Miles on Homers

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Anybody with a flair for figures can estimate how many miles Babe Ruth had to jog for his 600-odd home runs, amassed over a span of 10 years.

It is 360 feet around the bases and 600 times that is 216,000 feet. That's 72,000 yards or about 41 miles.

Tenth Grid Game Added by Ole Miss

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Sept. 14.—

University of Mississippi turned a new trick in Southern conference football today by scheduling a game with West Kentucky Teachers' College of Bowling Green, to be played here Saturday.

The recent shift of the campus game with Southwestern of Memphis to that city, and the desire of the coaching staff to get a line on the new material from which the Red and Blue eleven must be rebuilt this fall, were given by Ed Walker, athletic director, as the reason for the sudden addition of a game to the fore-end of a nine-game schedule.

Great Circus Plays to Full House, Thrills Youngsters of All Ages

There is little argument that the Ringling-Barnum circus gives the biggest entertainment value, in times of depression or prosperity, for the amount of money necessary to get inside the big tent, of any offering in the amusement line.

And, speaking of depression—and who is not—there was not a sign of it out at the Highland avenue grounds yesterday. Last night the seat sellers were hard put to find accommodations for the crowd and, if anyone happens to know the capacity of the tent, that is the attendance for the night's performance. In other words, the place was full of a well-dressed, happy and undeniably prosperous crowd.

In regard to proof of the amount of entertainment offered, where else, on one program, can you see the fellow who does a forward somersault on the silver wire, the girl who arm swings on the trapeze uncounted scores of times, the girl who catches herself from destruction by her heels, the man who does a dive through fifty feet of empty space with a woman strapped to his back, the boys who perform the slide for life, on their heads, down the guy rope, the hundreds of gorgeous horses, the performing seals and elephants and zebras, etc., etc., the three-ton sea elephant and, as a grand climax, the man who is shot all the way across the tent from the mouth of a great cannon.

Of course, it is impossible in one paragraph, let alone in less than one page of a newspaper, to describe anything but a small part of the program. It's all good, however, with that Ringling-Barnum stamp of excellence that is not visibly affixed to the performers but which is intangibly present on every one in everything they do.

The clowns were funnier than ever, if possible. The horses were equestrian beauties, and the evening was a sawdust delight. There was, once again, that unique odor of the circus to sting the nostrils with its promise of a good time and the barking of the sea lions mingling with the grunting coughs of the elephants, the roars of the lions and the neighing of the horses to awaken again that perennial spirit of circus day in every one of the thousands there.

Ringling-Barnum has paid the annual visit. This was their last stand of the year.

Aged Negro Servitor Leaves Small Fortune

Old Joe's sisters here inherited his savings at half a century. They plan to buy an electric refrigerator, a radio and an automobile.
